

HKQAA hosted the first Business Resilience & Community Contribution Awards presentation ceremony on 27 August 2021 at the Cityview Hotel, Kowloon.

The Awards recognise organisations for their perseverance and agility under the new normal, and their commitment to caring for society. More than 170 organisations and sites were recognised.

The Awards aim to encourage organisations to strengthen measures to combat the pandemic, and improve their performance in occupational safety and health, business continuity and social responsibility, so as to prepare for post-pandemic recovery.

The sites that were awarded gold seals and silver seals came from more than 160 locations around the Hong Kong SAR, and represented many different business sectors, including property management, catering, tourism, exhibitions, finance, engineering, public transportation, social welfare and youth services. 11 well-known organisations were awarded the Management Award for Business Resilience & Community Contribution.

The Awards also recognise the important role played by both leaders and frontline personnel during the pandemic. The recipients of the Leadership Award for Business Resilience & Community Contribution tackle challenges with agility under the new normal. They strive to improve the management of their organisation, ensure the continuity of its business, care about the needs of employees and their families, and actively support the community.

The awarded frontline staff work in property management, station service, customer service and human resources. During the pandemic, they have performed their duties diligently and served people with care.

Ir C. S. Ho, Chairman of HKQAA (left photo) said, "We are very pleased to see that, despite the lengthy pandemic situation, many organisations in Hong Kong are committed to addressing challenges, driving business resilience, and extending a caring hand to the community. I believe that with our joint efforts we can certainly turn crisis into opportunity and move towards a sustainable future."

Mr Simon Wong Ka Wo, BBS, JP, Deputy Chairman of HKQAA (right photo) said, "When society faces the most difficult times, it often brings out people's humanity. We have seen many awarded organisations not only trying to stabilise their core business, but also investing resources to strengthen epidemic prevention and health, protect customers and employees, provide assistance to disadvantaged groups, and demonstrate a spirit of mutual aid."

Dr Michael Lam, Chief Executive Officer of HKQAA (left photo) said that the awardees would continue to play a leading role and encourage more organisations and industry professionals to improve their performance in the areas of anti-epidemic preparations, occupational safety and health, business continuity and social responsibility. He believed this would strengthen their ability to deal with different risks, and at the same time make a greater contribution to the sustainable development of society in the future.

Mr P C Chan, Deputy Chief Executive Officer of HKQAA (right photo) stressed that HKQAA will continue to meet the needs of industry and society, and actively develop more innovative services with a strategic vision, assisting enterprises and society to address future challenges and seize opportunities for development.
